SNOW CRAB

SNOW CRAB

Snow crab is a unique delicacy that adds elegance to any dish with its bright orange meat and intense umami flavor it just doesn't get any better.

The snow crab (Chionoecetes opilio) lives in the coldest parts of the Pacific, North Atlantic and Arctic Oceans, where the water temperature is always below 40°F. The crab has a small body with long, thin legs and an orange, light-brown or red-coloured shell. The stocks in Western Greenland and Canada are considered to be healthy and are harvested at a sustainable level.

In Newfoundland, Canada, Royal Greenland owns Quin Sea Fisheries with several production facilities processing snow crab as well as cold-water shrimp, lobster, scallops, ground fish, sea cucumbers and whelk. The crabs are landed alive to the factory where they first undergo a quality check before they are slaughtered, cooked according to their size and weight in saltwater and immediately quick frozen and glazed with saltwater brine. They are then carefully packed in plastic lined cardboard master cartons. The process is short and very simple, yet the careful and fast handling secures a very high and uniform quality of the delicate crab.

Royal Greenland is among the largest global suppliers of seafood and is a truly vertically integrated company, combining fishing with processing, logistics and sales in order to bring high-quality, North Atlantic seafood products from catch to consumers - implementing our deeply rooted experience of the trade every step of the way. In the US, Royal Greenland caters to quality conscious customers with an assortment of snow crab, cold-water shrimp, Greenland turbot, cod and other North Atlantic species.
